Royal Dutch Chess Federation introduces Internet membership

Cooperation between Chessbase and KNSB, the Royal Dutch Chess Federation, has resulted in the introduction of a special Internet chess membership for Dutch chess players. It uses PlayChess, the world's most popular internet chess server, as interactive platform.

KNSB has created a special room within the PlayChess environment, where Dutch chess players can learn, play and enjoy chess. In the spring of 2009 KNSB will organise the first National Internet Chess Championships.

The cooperation between Chessbase and KNSB has made it possible to offer an attractive proposition to the Dutch chess community. It enables players on every level to play chess on the Internet in a user friendly environment whenever they want against players on every level.
